KOREAN CONFRONTATION CONTINUES UNRESOLVED

The talks between North Korean and US representatives at Panmunjom appear to have made no progress toward resolving the confrontation over the Pueblo incident.

Pyongyang is clearly intent on prolonging tensions by dragging out negotiations. North Korean propaganda has concentrated on publicizing "confessions" by the Pueblo's crew. A lengthening parade of officers and crewmen allegedly have expressed guilt and "apologized" for the ship's intrusion into North Korean waters.

The South Korean [REDACTED] initial dissatisfaction over US handling of the Pueblo incident soon broadened [REDACTED] into widespread public resentment. [REDACTED]
